

EE TV TERMS AND CONDITIONS – AVAILABLE FROM 25 AUGUST 2015

1. Eligibility

a. EE TV is available to EE, T-Mobile and Orange mobile customers (pay monthly, SIM only or pay as you go) who take a new EE broadband plan with a landline with an 18 month minimum term. Existing broadband customers will need to sign up to an eligible broadband plan with a new minimum term. A new minimum term will apply to your broadband and set-top box service. If you cancel your broadband plan, early cancellation charges may be payable for the cancelled plan. Please see our broadband Price Guide for details of the broadband and set-top box early cancellation charges (ee.co.uk/homepricing).

b. If you're a new or existing EE, T-Mobile or Orange consumer mobile customer (whether that's pay monthly or pay as you go), you can take the broadband and television service at any point in your contract. Pay as you go and SIM only customers will need to pass a credit check to get broadband. Pay as you go customers need to have at least £1 credit on their account. If you're a pay monthly mobile customer the minimum terms for your pay monthly plan and your broadband plan may not end at the same time. If your mobile contract expires or you cancel it early, you can continue with the television and broadband service but you will lose any data boost or any other promotional offer for having both a mobile plan with and broadband and TV. Please see ee.co.uk/broadbandofferterms.

2. Use

a. EE TV is provided for use in domestic premises only and for your private and domestic use only. EE TV must not be used for any commercial purposes.

b. EETV is not to be used for copying or recording all or any content watched or held on the set-top box except as allowed by law for your own private and domestic use. If any copying which is allowed by law becomes illegal, you may be required to cease recording content and delete any copied material. You must not re-sell, or charge anyone for watching or using any part of the television service. You must not broadcast or show any live or recorded content to the public or to anyone in an office or commercial space or otherwise use the EETV service for any commercial purposes. You must not "flick", stream, record, copy or transfer any text, graphic, photo, video, music, sound-recordings, audio, audio-visual content or any other content which you don't legally own from your device to the EETV set-top box. These are important conditions of us providing the set-top box. We will have the immediate right to terminate your agreement without notice if you do not comply with the requirements of these clauses 2(a) and (b).

b. We are entitled to prevent the copying of anything on the set-top box where reasonable, including where such copying may infringe the intellectual property rights or any other right of a third party. We may also delete recordings from the set top-box which infringe the intellectual property rights or any other rights of a third party. We may also do anything outlined in this clause 2(b) if we have threatened action of intellectual property infringement from any third party.

3. Technical Requirements

a. To receive EE TV you must:

- i. have a television with a SCART or HDMI connection. If you require further information on this please visit the help pages on our website (ee.co.uk/ee-tv-help);
- ii. keep the box connected to your EE broadband, otherwise most functionality will be lost. Please see the user guide for more info;
- iii. obtain your own television licence from the TV Licensing Authority – we are not responsible for this. Please see www.tvlicensing.co.uk for television licensing requirements;
- iv. provide your own television and any other necessary equipment. We will not provide you with anything other than the set-top box; HDMI cable; power cable and remote control. Everything else necessary to access the services must be provided by you. If you require a SCART cable, you can order one from ee.co.uk/tvaccessories. You will not be charged for the first SCART lead you order from us but postage and packaging charges will apply. For details, see your plan's Price Guide (ee.co.uk/homepricing)
- v. have a EE broadband service and landline which is capable of achieving transmission speeds of at least 4Mbps;
- vi. receive a good quality Freeview signal at your address, either from a rooftop or loft aerial or a fully working indoor aerial (if you live in a flat you may have a distributed TV system). Please check your Freeview coverage and channel availability at www.digitaluk.co.uk. The aerial should be easily accessed in your home and in close proximity to where the set-top box is to be installed. A digital television aerial will not be provided as part of the service and we cannot arrange this for you. It's your responsibility to arrange this if you don't already have one. If one can't be arranged, you will be responsible for any early termination fees as set out in our Price Guide (ee.co.uk/homepricing). Please see ee.co.uk/ee-tv-help for information on digital TV aerials. If you would like help with the installation of your television aerial, you can book an engineer when you sign up. The engineer visit costs are set out in our Price Guide (ee.co.uk/homepricing)

4. Using Our EE TV Box

- a. The set-top box will remain our property at all times. We provide you with free hire of the set-top box so you can receive content. As the box remains our property, you are responsible for making sure that our equipment is kept in good, working condition and used properly. Whilst we remain the owner, you also agree to:
 - i. allow us to make alternations or replace the box if necessary. We may need reasonable access to your home to do this or we may need you to follow reasonable instructions from us or those of the box manufacturer;
 - ii. keep the equipment in your home and under your supervision and control. You must not sell it, hire it out to anyone else (whether for free or for a fee), use it as security for a loan or use it to set any debts Insure any loss, theft or damage for the full replacement value with respect to set-top box;
 - iii. not tamper with, disassemble, misuse, neglect or damage the box;
 - iv. not remove, tamper with or remove any labels on the box;

- v. take proper care at all times to prevent the loss or theft of the box;
 - vi. allow us to access the box remotely and perform any diagnostics or install software;
 - vii. keep the box in a cool, dry place with good airflow. The box should be located in a room between 0 and 40 degrees Celsius. The box does not have a built-in cooling fan and so you will need to keep the box uncovered and the entire top side free of obstacles to allow it to cool. Please see the set-top box User Guide for more information; and
 - viii. allow us to amend the television functionality or switch it off completely for any good reason, including but not limited to: a failure to make payments due under this agreement; a failure to maintain EE broadband for any reason and/or for any reason required at law such as intellectual property infringement, including the threat of action.
- b. If you do not comply with our reasonable requirements as set out above, we can charge you the full replacement fee as set out in our Price Guide. You must immediately tell our customer services team if the box is lost, damaged or stolen. We may charge you for any loss or damage to the equipment caused by you or your negligence.
- c. If we or you end this agreement for any reason, you must return the box to us. If you fail to return the box we will charge you for the replacement cost, including any reasonable costs connected with getting the box back from you and lock the services provided on the box, including pause, record, rewind, replay, restart, multi screen and catch up services. If we lock your box, you will only be able to watch the free to view channels. Please see our Price Guide (ee.co.uk/homepricing) for replacement costs. We can offset any debt you have with respect to the box against any money we hold for you on your account.
- d. You may use your own television and other equipment together with anything we provide for you to use the set-top box, but we do not guarantee that your equipment will be compatible. We are not responsible for any damage or loss which you suffer from using your equipment with anything we've supplied or recommended (such as the aerial).
- e. If we don't need the set-top box back and you need to dispose of the box or any other equipment, then please give our customer services team a call so we can discuss responsible disposal.
- f. The set-top box contains various material, software and content protected by third party copyright and other intellectual property rights. You agree by using the set-top box not to infringe any of those rights such as copying, decompiling, or otherwise alternating the software contained on the box. Our authorised third party supplier of the box, Netgem, shall remain the sole owner of any intellectual property rights contained within the software on the set-top box. You may only use the software in the form provided and only in conjunction with the box. You must not use any unauthorised software on the equipment. To use the set-top box you will be required to accept the end user licence agreement which you can find under 'Tools/Help/Settings/Licensing & Copyright' in the menu. By using the set-top box, you are deemed to have accepted that end user licence agreement.

5. Returns and Repairs

a. When you receive the set-top box, you must inspect it and tell us of any damaged or missing items within fourteen (14) days of receipt. Please see our returns policy at ee.co.uk/terms You will then need to send the set-top box back to EE in the returns bag we give you.

b. We will repair or replace the set-top box if it becomes faulty, unless you leave us at any time or you are responsible for the fault. You may be responsible for the fault if you: fail to follow either our or the manufacturers' instructions; using the box incorrectly or negligently; changing or altering the box without our consent; and/or doing anything else which is likely to cause damage to the box. This is a non-exhaustive list and there may be other times where you will be responsible for the fault which will be decided in our reasonable discretion.

c. If you receive a replacement set-top box, you will need to return to us the faulty box (including anything we provided with it) within thirty (30) days of receiving the new box. If you don't return the faulty box, we can charge you for the full replacement fee as set out in the Price Guide and lock the services provided on the box, including pause, record, rewind, replay, restart, multi screen and catch up services. If we lock your box, you will only be able to watch the free to view channels. We will refund to you the reasonable cost of returning the faulty box to us by post.

d. If you cancel your television Service (whether that's during or after the expiration of the minimum term), you will need to return the set-top box to us. If you fail to return it to us within fourteen (14) days, then in addition to any fee payable for early termination of your plan, we may also charge you the cost of the set-top box as set out in our Price Guide and lock the services provided on the box, including pause, record, rewind, replay, restart, multi screen and catch up services. If we lock your box, you will only be able to watch the free to view channels.

6. Content

a. The set-top box service will be provided to you for viewing free to air channels only and other additional content that you purchase. We are not responsible for any such third party content or services. Some of these third party content providers may require you to accept additional terms and conditions and pay additional fees. These fees are in addition to any monthly subscription fees you may pay as part of your broadband service and set-top box. We will tell you what inclusive content is available when you join (if any) and what is available for purchase on demand. We may change this content from time to time at our discretion and this shall not give you a right to cancel your agreement with us.

b. If you select and view any additional chargeable content, you must pay for such content directly to the content provider. It will not be charged to your EE TV bill. Any such content may be subject to a minimum subscription period and charge as set by the third party provider. You should read all relevant details and terms and conditions before you purchase the content.

c. We shall not be responsible for the loss of any content you may have recorded or have scheduled to record at any time, including when we update the EETV set-top box with new software. You acknowledge that software updates may disrupt scheduled recordings and we are not responsible for anything that does not record or that you lose. If you have the box repaired or replaced, or you need to return a box with content contained on it, we are not responsible for any content that is lost.

d. The number of channels and quality of those channels provided to you over digital terrestrial television is dependent on a number of factors over which we have no control. It may depend on the quality of the broadcast from your local television transmitter, the quality of your aerial and the strength of the Freeview signal in your area. We will make reasonable efforts to provide you with a satisfactory service, but there may be factors beyond our control affecting the service. We also cannot guarantee the completeness or accuracy of the Electronic Programme Guide.

e. The content provided through our set-top box may not be suitable for viewing or use by people of all ages. It is therefore your responsibility: (i) to set up and maintain parental controls; and (ii) to ensure that any content viewed or used is suitable for those viewing or using it (including children). The parental control PIN is available during set up. It can be configured to block post watershed content for television and broadcast recordings, hide adult channels, lock TV programmes with guidance labels (“G”) and lock specific Apps. Please note that all Apps accessed from the Electronic Programme Guide are controlled by third party content providers who will provide their own parental controls and PINs.

7. Functionality

a. Replay:

i. the set-top box allows you to set up a maximum of six channels to record the previous day of television. You will need to activate Replay feature and select your six channels for them to be automatically recorded. Replay is currently only available to record standard definition (“SD”) channels and high definition (“HD”) channels are excluded. The box will not record between the hours of 3am and 5am so anything airing partially or fully between these times will not be recorded. Subject to your user settings, any content recorded using Replay will only be kept for a maximum of 24 hours before the box automatically deletes the content. You will not be able to recover anything once it has been automatically or manually deleted;

ii. you will only be able to select six channels from two pre-defined groups. This may result in not all of your favourite six channels being available for this feature. The allocation of channels into groups is outside our control, and is dictated by Freeview channel allocation.

b. Multi Screen and Fetch: The set-top box allows you to view different content on up to four compatible devices at the same time, whether live or recorded (in addition to viewing something on your main television). Please see our website for a list of compatible devices.

8. Moving Home

a. If you move house you may still be able to continue to receive the TV service provided you have Freeview signal. We may charge you any reasonable administration fees for the move as set out in our Price Guide or otherwise notified to you.

b. If you cannot get the TV service at your new address for any reason, we may charge you the applicable early termination fees as set out in Price Guide.

9. Your Information

a. We will be collecting information about you and your use of EE TV including but not limited to the following:

i. your account information such as your address, your billing history, the services you use and anything else relating your account;

ii. the channels you are using and the types of programmes you watch;

iii. the types of functionalities you are using, for example recording;

iv. your viewing and purchasing preferences including when you respond to adverts or promotions;

v. your communications with us.

b. We will use your information for administration of your account, to provide you with service information and updates and to develop and improve our products and services.

c. We may combine information about your use of EE TV with other information we hold about you on how you are using other EE services, for example EE broadband to personalise services we offer you including recommending programmes that you might like and to market and advertise other EE products and services to you unless you have opted out of direct marketing. We will use your information in accordance with these terms and our privacy policy at ee.co.uk/privacy-policy. To opt out of direct marketing, please call Customer services on 150 from an EE handset or 0800 079 8586 from any other phone.

d. We may use aggregate information and statistics for the purposes of monitoring usage of our services in order to help us develop our services, and may provide aggregate information to third parties, for example, market research companies and advertisers about our sales, customers and service usage but these statistics will not include any information that can be used to identify you as an individual.

e. We may contact you to invite you to form part of our consumer panel or research groups about our products and services or third party products and services but it is entirely up to you whether you want to participate.

f. We may use your information to prevent and detect criminal activity, fraud and misuse of or damage to our services and to prosecute those responsible, to defend our rights or property or to protect the rights and interests of our customers and users or to solve any customer disputes. We may also use your information to comply with applicable laws, regulations, court orders, government and law enforcement agencies' requests.

g. Please review our privacy policy at ee.co.uk/privacy-policy for full details on how EE handles your information.

10. Your agreement with EE

If there is any conflict or inconsistency between these EETV terms and your network terms (which can be found here) then these EETV terms will prevail.
